Well, then you need to stop what you're doing, and listen up. The Pirates are sailing your way. Shiver me timbers!

Climb aboard the most eccentric, superbly swashbuckling boat-ride of your life, with 'Pirates of the Caribbean: Curse of the Black Pearl'.

Dive into the Depp, Depp oceans, and join in the magical extravaganza with our Bloomingly sensational, Oscar nominated star-studded cast.

Orlando Bloom and Keira Knightley, fresh faces of today's cinematic world, play Will Turner, and Elizabeth Swann. Societies clash, and loyalty, honour and respect is lost. However, love is gained, and friendships made in this rescue-mission, action-packed treasure hunt.

Although the film may be a Disney film, which people associate for little kids only, Director, Gore Verbinski (The Ring), constructs the film suitable for all of the family. He includes funny scenes in the film, which an older audience would find hilarious; however it still has those antics that would make your kids' sides split with laughter.

Producer, Jerry Bruckheimer (Pearl Harbour, Black Hawk Down) transforms this epic film, from a mere Disney theme park rollercoaster ride, to an cinematic rollercoaster ride, bursting full of magical, sophisticated, action-packed treasure. After watching this film, you too, would wish to be included in this prodigious pirate-flick.

'You are, without doubt, the worse pirate I've ever heard of'.

'Yes, but you have heard of me'. Captain Jack Sparrow (Johnny Depp – Sleepy Hollow, Edward Scissorhands), the protagonist, comically models his performance on Rolling Stones guitarist, Keith Richard – whose flawless performance has actually made the film far more famous for. Every grunt, every stagger, every stumble, and every eerie eye contact given by Jack Sparrow, creates intense, yet comical tension in the film. This over-the-top performance of his, keeps the laughs going and the film progressing very smoothly. A masterpiece in acting earns the legendary Johnny Depp a well deserved Oscar Nomination.

The story of the film involves four, different, unique yet ironically interlinked characters, colliding due to the obvious theme of Piracy. Keira Knightley plays Elizabeth Swann, the damsel in distress, the dominant female in a patriarchal society. Swann plays the British beauty caste away, being pulled onto the Black Pearl, acknowledging herself as 'Elizabeth Turner', surname of her secret love, Will Turner. Secrets are being made, and compromised, as the story unfolds.

Orlando Bloom plays Will Turner, an ordinary blacksmith, saved by Elizabeth Swann, but rescued and brought to town by her father. Turner hasn't forgotten his heroic skills from Lord of the Rings, yet improves it further with superb sword-fighting skills. Will Turner, has high expectations throughout the film, as he learns of his true identity – son of legendary pirate 'Bootstrap Bill' – one of the secrets kept from him.

In every film there is always a villain. Without a doubt, one of the most revolting, yet simultaneously charming of them would be Captain Barbossa

(Geoffrey Rush). After stealing Captain Jack Sparrow's famous ship – the Black Pearl – which was thought to be a rumour only. His mission, is to relieve the curse brought onto the, because of treasure stealing, which involves them turning into skeletal horrors during the day, and back to fleshy-human pirates again.

A mischievous, secretive extravaganza, to be appreciated, and enjoyed by everyone.

Although it is not as heroic as it could have been. Nobody would dare say it was a pile of ship. Far from it! Arrr mateys.
